❖ Wildlife Week, observed from October 2nd to 8th annually, is a crucial event in the conservation calendar in India. This week-long celebration urges the people to promote the safeguarding and preserving of animal life. Its core objective is to educate individuals about the intricacies of animal life, encouraging them to refrain from killing animals for any reason. The essence of the week lies in fostering empathy and compassion towards the animal kingdom, ultimately striving for a harmonious coexistence where humans play an active role in ensuring the well-being of these creatures.
